AUTOGRAPHS

COLONEL
LEGRAND T. MEYER

We dedicate this volume
to the memory of a staunch friend;
of one who placed Education above the material things of Life; and whose kindly interest in the High School will be long and gratefully remembered:

Colonel LeGrand T. Meyer

The gentleness of Solitude, the loftiness of Spirit,
The everlasting example of natural wonders---
The Dunes of Indiana.

The Dunes

Sand - - -

Shifting, shining gleams snow-white,

Glittering sweep of blinding light,

Drifted there by Nature's hand,

A wondrous garden of God's land.

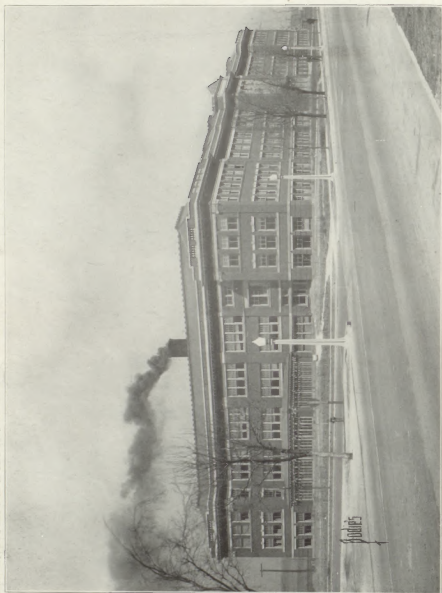

The lake a sheet of silver lay,

Ribbons of ripples and net of spray,

Shimmering in the waning light,

A shadowy mirror of the stars of night.

Confidence

A GREEN sailor aboard a ship was given a hard and unusual task to perform. Saluting the captain, he asked, "Did anybody ever do that?" "Yes, you fool," came the answer. "Do you suppose that I would order you to do a thing that was never done before?" Then the young sailor replied, "If anybody ever did it, I can do it!" He did it.

When those who have spent four precious years in high school are ready for college or the great school of life, the above thought should be foremost in their minds. Have confidence in yourself! Don't think that a thing is impossible because it looks hard; that ought to give you added impetus to complete your work. Yet how much energy is wasted because you think you cannot do it.

A no more definite example could be given of the above statement than the failure of Admiral Dupont to capture Charleston harbor. He gave reasons and alibis; Farragut, who was listening, remained silent till Dupont was through and then said, "Ah, Dupont, there was one more reason." "What was that?" Dupont asked. "You didn't believe you could do it!"

That is the cause of many failures on the road to success. "You didn't believe you could do it!" Lack of confidence in yourself; lack of confidence in others; lack of confidence in everything else; these are danger signs of Failure. The man who has yielded to them can easily be recognized. Head bowed down, stoop shouldered, shabby in appearance. As people pass him, they whisper, "He was a promising man, once. But he tackled a job too hard for him to do. He lost faith and hope before he started it. Look at him now."

On the other hand, there is the man who believes in himself. Head up, shoulders back, and a gleam in his eye; he walks down the street fearing no one. No job is too hard for him, no obstacle long remains in his path. He believes that success can only be achieved by confidence and hard work. People say of him that he can be trusted with anything and, if he can't do it, no one else can. He is a Success, with a capital S.

Choose!! What are you going to be? Will you be content with the broad and easy road to misery, or will you straighten up, look the world in the eye and say, "If Anybody Ever Did It, I Can Do It!!"

The Shy Flirt

JANUARY 1—As this is the first day of the New Year, I've decided to start it right by keeping a diary. Not that there'll be much of interest in it, 'cause I'm not the least bit popular. The other day I heard one girl talking to another girl (don't get the impression that I was intentionally listening, but you know women are noted for being curious, and when I heard my name mentioned—) but anyhow, she said, "Sharon Harrington (that's me) could be real popular, if she wasn't so shy." I suppose that's what's the matter with me, although I never thought I was particularly pretty, but people say I look just exactly like Shirley (except my hair is more of a reddish color than hers) and I always thought she was awfully pretty. Shirley's my twin and very popular—always has just scads of "bids" to dances and parties. She's not the least bit shy, like I am. Why, if a boy (that I like) so much as speaks to me outside of class, I get so embarrassed and can't think of one thing to say to him and so finally he gets disgusted and stops talking.

Shirley and I are the only children in our family. I guess Dad has lots of money; anyhow, we always have everything we want in the way of clothes and such. Dad and Mother are perfect dears, but there was one thing I can't stand. They call me their "honey girl"! Ugh, how I hate it. It savors so of a "sit by the fire and read" sort of a girl, but I guess that's the kind I am. Wouldn't it make you sick?

JANUARY 4—There's going to be a dance given in a week or so. It was announced this morning, first period, and before the end of the day Shirley had six bids! She'll probably go with Billy Crawford, though. She almost always does unless they happen to be having a fight. Yesterday she came home as pleased as Punch. He'd asked her if she'd wear his "I. S. A." pin. Would she? Say, she jumped at the chance. You see, the "I. S. A." club is the only really exclusive club in high school. Only twenty-four boys belong and no one but them know what I. S. A. means. Almost any girl would give her eye teeth to wear one of their perfectly darling pins. Billy's and Donald Van Roland's were the only ones that some girl didn't have, and now Shirley has Billy's. Oh, for Don's! He's the best looking boy in the whole school, besides being the captain of both the football and basketball teams, secretary of the Senior class (I forgot to say, Shirley and I are both Seniors) and president of the I. S. A. He never takes any girl any place more than once. He never has asked me, although he has Shirley, and I do believe I'd go in the seventh heaven of delight if he only would. No such luck though.

JANUARY 7—I feel just exactly like crying! I'm so mad I could—Oh! I don't know anything terrible enough! Did anyone ever have such terrible luck? But wait till you hear the terrible tale.

Today George Warren asked me to go to the dance with him. I don't like the little nut, and besides, he's quite a bit shorter than I am, so I told him I wasn't going. (For a wonder I didn't blush, but then I never do unless it's some boy who isn't such a nut.) And then what should happen, but a couple of periods later, Don,—the Don,—should ask me to go with him! I know that I blushed, but I was just about to stammer out that I'd be glad to go, when I remembered George! Oh, why, why was he ever born? Of course, I couldn't go with Don after informing George that I wasn't going. Was there ever such a perfectly miserable person as I am? Somehow I managed to tell Don I wasn't going and he looked at me so queerly. I wonder what he thought of me. Oh, dear, I do believe I'll cry!

JANUARY 20—Shirley has just left for the dance. She had a new dress and looked awfully sweet. I've got a new dress too, but no place to wear it except to the show with Dad and Mother. When Shirley found out I'd refused both George and Don, she said I was a "perfect little fool," and asked me why I didn't go with George anyhow. It wouldn't necessarily have meant I'd see very much of him, but I never thought of that. (Don't think that Shirley and I aren't the bestest of chums, for she's always trying to make me overcome my shyness. She gives parties and fixes it so that the nicest boys always take me out to dinner, but it's no use, I always become tongue-tied.)

JANUARY 23—There's going to be a play given here at school. I would like to be in it but I suppose I won't have a chance with Shirley "trying out" for it too.

JANUARY 25—Well, the tryouts are through with; as I thought, I didn't have a chance against Shirley. Miss Grace said I was too shy for the part (that of the leading lady) but I have been cast for a minor part—a sister of the leading lady, who appears for five minutes in one scene and three minutes in another. Don is the leading man of the cast and Billy has a minor part. The rest of the cast are all in Shirley's crowd and of course there had to be an uneven number of boys and girls. Don doesn't go with anybody in particular, but neither does Helen Morgan, so I suppose they'll naturally "pair off." Neither do I, far as that matters, but then it seems natural for me to be the extra one.

FEBRUARY 24—We've been practicing for nearly a month now. It's been awfully tiresome work for me because I appear in only the first and fourth acts and so have to stay through nearly the entire rehearsal. I had been planning, after the fourth act, the night of the performance, to "fake up" a headache and go home, 'cause after the last act all of the cast are going to be served "cats" and then they're planning to stay and dance a while and, being the "extra" one, it would be horrid for me. Well, as I was saying, I had been planning to do this, but one day at rehearsal, Shirley couldn't remember a line or two, and Miss Grace was busy, so I prompted her. Miss Grace heard me and asked in a somewhat surprised tone if I knew Shirley's part. I told her yes, that I knew all of the three principal characters' parts. So then she asked me if I would mind helping her with the prompting as she wants to supervise the getting in of two of the costumes that Shirley wears and one that Helen does. This one of Helen's has to be gotten into just before the last scene, so that means I'll have to stay through the whole thing. It'll be lots harder to get away now. The performances are a week from today.

MARCH 2, or rather 3—Oh, so much has happened today or rather yesterday that it seems as though it couldn't really be me who's writing this! It's now ten minutes of four. I'm so tired I can hardly write, but I must while it's still fresh in my mind.

To begin: Yesterday afternoon (or rather day before yesterday afternoon) went off splendidly except that Shirley complained of a slight sore throat, but we were all too busy to notice. I didn't see anything of her all day yesterday because I was busy helping Miss Grace at her house and we went right on to the auditorium together. (Billy was, of course, going to call for Shirley.) I had just decided to go and get dressed, but was taking one last look down the street for Shirley, as it was getting late. Don came towards me just as I started back and told me that Miss Grace had said to come on and get ready as Shirley didn't appear until the second scene. As Don and I walked back towards the dressing rooms, he asked me, quite casually, "Could I have the first dance tonight, Sharon?" Well, I nearly fell over and before I thought I blurted out that I wasn't staying for the dance. "Why not?" Don asked.

I couldn't think what else to tell him so I told him the truth. "I know I'll feel extra," I said, "and I don't like to."

"Why should you feel extra?" he then asked, and I'm sure I don't know what I could have told him; for certainly I couldn't say that I thought he liked Helen better than me (for she'd gone to the dance with him). But just then, luckily, Billy came running in but with no sign of Shirley! Seeing us, he stopped a minute and said, "Shirley's got a sore throat and the doctor says she can't possibly come tonight!" That certainly was a calamity. Shirley might need me and I was just waiting for Miss Grace to tell us that we'd have to postpone the play, so I could "beat it" for home. Just then Don spoke up. "Why not let Sharon take her sister's place?" he asked. "I'm sure she could flirt just as well, and she certainly knows Shirley's part." You see, in the play the heroine is supposed to flirt with every man in sight and break heart after heart, until she meets "Mr. Right," who will have nothing to do with her until the last act. "Oh, no," I gasped, "I couldn't possibly."

"Oh, please, Sharon," Miss Grace begged and they all pleaded with me until finally I gave in. What else could I have done? I certainly couldn't let the play be a failure (for the auditorium was already half filled and people don't like being disappointed) when it was in my power to save it.

All the time Miss Grace was helping me dress, my head seemed to whirl, and I felt so dazed and horribly frightened. When my cue came I walked on the stage and it seemed as though millions of people stared at me. I couldn't remember a single line—words cannot describe that terrible moment. Suddenly I heard voices talking and I realized that Don was being introduced to me. Somehow he had switched things around so as to appear in that first scene with me. For one moment, while his back was toward the audience, he looked straight at me and said encouragingly, "Come on, kid, brace up. You're all right, only flirt with me." Those words of encouragement swept away all my stage-fright. I was no longer bewildered and began to play my part. I hope that I flirted all right, at least everybody says I was wonderful. Something seems to have happened to me at the same time. I just know I shall never be shy again.

Well, I'm awfully tired so I guess I'll stop and go and see if Shirley is still asleep. There's not much more to tell. We danced until half-past three and Don brought me home and I've had a perfectly wonderful time.

MARCH 5—Oh, did anyone ever have such a gorgeous twin! That night when I went to see if Shirley wanted anything, I found that she had been no more sick than I was. She was only trying to cure my shyness, and she did, for if it hadn't been for her I don't believe that Don would have asked me today if I wouldn't like to wear his I. S. A. pin!

MARGARET BARROWS, '25.

THE END

An Interesting Trip

LEAVING Colon, on the Atlantic side, we crossed the Isthmus of Panama by rail, and arrived at Balboa, on the Pacific side, about noon. Although the trip was rather long, lasting two hours, it was not tiresome as we sat in the observation car and enjoyed the tropical scenery to our hearts' content.

After many preliminary preparations we all climbed into a caramenta (cab) and drove down to the dock. One by one we scrambled into our little forty-five foot motor-boat, the "Cara." We were convulsed with paroxysms of laughter at "Jessie," our black Jamaican maid whom mother had brought along to take care of my little brother, for when she stepped high, as directed, she ripped the elaborately embroidered ruffle off her stiffly starched petticoat. Jessie was really the scream of the trip. Just try to imagine her! A tall, lean, lank, coal-black, mournful-looking individual, slow, obstinate, and very much inclined to go to sleep when she should be awake! She was dressed in a white shirtwaist and skirt, and as a final vanity, had high heeled white canvas pumps on her extremely large awkward feet. These same pumps must have been several sizes too small, for poor Jessie slipped them off at every opportunity and always had to hunt wildly for them when the time came to move.

With a throbbing of the motor we were off, headed for the little island of Taboga, about twelve miles away. We settled down to enjoy ourselves, which was not difficult, as the water was very placid and there was a wonderful breeze. The sun cast a yellow glow over the deep blue water.

After one of the most enjoyable trips imaginable, we came in sight of the island of Taboga. Taboga is shaped like a small mountain, the highest point being marked by a tiny cross. About half way down the side of the island the Hotel Aspinwall is situated. The beach looked so smooth, so white and enticing it made one wish to go in swimming immediately.

We dropped anchor and after a precarious descent (with many audible protests and squeals from Jessie) into a small panga (boat) we finally got ashore. The climb was a steep one but at last we reached the hotel, just in time for dinner. We spent the evening in walking and sitting on the porch, and enjoying the ocean breeze.

The next morning we were up early and about ten o'clock we started out to view the native village. We trudged along for a while and suddenly came upon a group of huts. The cobble-stone street was narrow and dirty. It was shaded by a row of dirty little huts on either side. We peered curiously into the little homes and were amazed to see goats, pigs, chickens, and geese living in the houses right along with the people.

Having traversed the length of the town, we came to a stretch of white beach, dotted here and there with pink and blue seashells glistening in the blazing tropical sun. The slaughter house, which was just a shack, farther on, presented a sharp contrast to the previous scene. Immense black buzzards were hovering around, watchful, hopeful, waiting until the next cattle should be slain. We finally became so warm that we turned back to the hotel.

That afternoon I decided that I would like to go swimming and as the best bathing was across the bay, I got George, the negro watchman on the "Cara," to row me over in the lifeboat. I had a lovely time swimming. Coming back I thought how ridiculous it would be if I should happen to fall in, but never thought of it as a serious probability. I fall in, why how utterly impossible! I soon found out that pride does go before a fall, and it was some fall, let me tell you! As we came up to the landing I put my hand forth to pull the boat in so that I could get out, but "haste makes waste." Instead of pulling the boat nearer, like most greenhorns I pushed it away. There I was—my feet in the boat, my hands on the little ledge. Splash! Into the water I went! I grabbed my sweater with one hand and in some way caught hold of the boat, which by my effort to get back into it was nearly upset. Old George was duly excited, saying, "Steady there, Miss! Steady there!" Finally I scrambled back in, much crestfallen and presenting a woe-begone picture. Never again shall I attempt to pull a boat in to the landing. That is one vow that I shall keep.

The next day we left Taboga. We dropped anchor in Balboa harbor. In the evening we went ashore for dinner. After snooping around we located a splendid Chinese restaurant where we had some delicious chop suey. We slept in the boat that night and it was perfectly delightful. Before going to sleep we sat up on the bridge deck. The phosphorescence in the water was really beautiful. We had quite an exciting experience during the night. I woke up to find the water at low tide and here we were almost out of the water. That was soon remedied.

At daybreak we weighed anchor and at six o'clock we were waiting at the Miraflores lock for the steamer with which we were to be locked through. After a long wait, the steamship "Eastern Star" arrived and trailing along behind it we entered the lock. The massive gates closed behind us. Suddenly hemp lines swished through the air and landed on the deck. We looked up to see that men on the walls had hurled them down and "Old George" quickly fastened the lines to the boat. The purpose of the lines was to hold the "Cara" steady, at least as steady as possible.

With a thundering noise water came pouring into the locks from the bottom of the chamber at the rate of twenty-five thousand gallons per second. One can imagine how rapidly we were raised and with such great force that "Old George" had hard work keeping the "Cara" from dashing itself against the concrete wall. When we sailed out of the lock we found ourselves raised to the level of Lake Miraflores.

We next came to Pedro Miguel where we were raised two steps, that is, there are two chambers in the Pedro Miguel locks.

From Pedro Miguel we sailed into Lake Gatun. Alligators could be seen lazing in the untroubled waters. Beyond a turn in the lake lay the dead jungle, a forest of stark gray trees rearing from the bottom of the lake, their leafless boughs like great gaunt arms.

At last we came to the Gatun locks. As we entered an interesting scene lay before us. On one side lay a large green field which is the Gatun golf course, the most expensive in the world. Again massive gates opened to us, but this time instead of being raised we were lowered and the speed with which the water is withdrawn is even greater than that with which the locks are filled. It seemed almost uncanny to see and to feel the water receding so rapidly beneath us. It would be certain death if anyone ever fell in as the suction is so great.

From the Gatun locks we entered the Atlantic Ocean. The day was windy and the ocean was rather rough. The "Cara" went bounding over the water with the swinging motion of a rocking horse. The spray splashed on our faces and we thoroughly enjoyed the change as the locks had been extremely hot, a further evidence of this being a good coat of sunburn we had all acquired. At last we got into Colon harbor and "Old George" let down the anchor. We all scrambled out, including Jessie, with numerous squeals, to which by that time we had become accustomed.

BETTY KLINGSMITH, '25.

Senior Prophecy

THE International Exposition held in Hammond in the year 1933 was in full swing. The whole elaborately conceived undertaking had originated with the three master minds of the world, Wilfred Weaver, Edward Brennan, and Louis Marko. Their plans were in evidence everywhere. Things were going smoothly, and a great success was certain. The exposition buildings were the marvel of the age. The architects were J. Henricks, Friedman & Co., while the actual building was ably handled by Joe Ball, the millionaire contractor.

At the present moment the large mass of humanity was interested in the balloon flight of the widely advertised "Windy" Meyer, aeronautic acrobat. Presently two people began excitedly to worm their way toward the balloon man. They seemed very anxious to see him, but before they got there the balloon rose. As it drifted over the main executive building, a sheet of flame suddenly enveloped the whole affair and it dropped like a bullet to the ground.

The man was picked up and rushed to the medical building on the exposition grounds. The two strangers followed him into the building and sat down to wait in the lobby. As they were sitting there a beautiful woman strolled in and suddenly gave a gasp of surprise as her eyes fell upon the two strangers.

"Why, Ed Henricks and Bob Wilson!"

"Why, Min," they echoed, "what are you doing here?"

"Why, I called for Bill,—he is a surgeon in this building. He said he'd meet me here at ten; but he's late, as usual."

"Oh, you captured Bill then," said Bob.

"Oh, I had him cinched long ago," she grinned, as a door opened and the head nurse quietly entered.

"Maggie Klein!" exclaimed Bob and Eddie.

An instant later Erwin Meyer, the acrobat, made his appearance from the hallway; he was in a wheel chair pushed by Dr. Kleihege. As "Windy" was not seriously injured, only sustaining a broken arm and several bruises, he joined in the reunion; and tongues wagged and how the news rolled out!

"Windy" soon had the floor and commenced his tale of history.

"Yes, I've gotten around quite a lot," he commenced, "and I've met a lot of the class of '23. I was with Nathan Shorr's circus for a year. Bennie Gerber is his advertising manager and Jack Harwood his legal adjuster. The class was also represented among the performers by Evaughn and Eulah Milliken, who are star bareback riders; Ned Cook is a clown, and Hazel Hall is the fat lady in the side show."

One after the other of the group chimed in with news notes of different ones.

"Karl Taggart's Chief of Police,"

"Giles Warner is mayor. Didn't you hear about his sensational breach of promise suit? But he won out and Lenore Ellison has now achieved fame by her writings. Her latest novel is 'Gentlemen I Have Known.'"

"Did you know Harriet Kaufman was still hot on Bob Scherer's trail? And, by golly, it looks like she'll nab him."

"The Myers Syndicate has published prenuptials for Elmer Tangerman and Mabel Schmueser."

"Myers Syndicate?"

"Yes, Bill and Marcus Myers, who have established a matrimonial bureau."

"Adolph Rodell is editor of the Chicago Tribune, and Gerald Price is printing manager."

"Let's all go 'round the exposition grounds and take things in," suggested Eddie.

All agreed but Margaret Klein, who had to remain on duty at the Medical Building. The little group strolled down Calumet Avenue when Bob gasped and said—

"Look at the sign on the new Triangle Theatre owned by Russell Gray, Louis Reichers, and Bob McLaggen." Across the front of the theatre blazed a big sign:

"Lecture on Chinese Missions by John Muri, professor of French at Harvard; also, readings by Mrs. Gwendolyn Beaghler Muri."

Their attention was attracted by a beautiful Rolls-Royce car whizzing past, closely followed by two motor cops who stopped it at the next corner. Arriving on the scene they were dumbfounded to find Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Curtner (previously Sally Meyer) explaining to officers John Dyer and "Buzz" Fowler.

"Let's visit the industrial building," suggested someone. Inside, all the industries of the world were represented; and while viewing the exhibits in the building many old friends were encountered. Lynn Fites, cub reporter for the Lake County Times, was taking notes on the display of electric typewriters which Mr. Chastler has invented. Harriet Stafford and Veronica Krikshuinas were demonstrating the machines. A poster announced that the school of advanced stenography managed by Laura Van Willigan and Ruth Warrimont used the Chastler machines exclusively.

After seeing Ralston Miller demonstrate his newest invention, the Photo-Phone, whereby you could not only talk to a person on the phone but also see him, the party broke up. Henricks and Wilson retired to a hotel which was famous for its dinners, famous because of the two domestic science experts, Etta Luttrell and Loretta Frey. Entering the hotel they went to the desk to register and were quite delighted to find Raymond Waller, the clerk, and Eulalia Willis, the house detective. Miss Willis said that Naomi Johnson was teaching home economics, and Irene Ambre was teaching music at the old H. H. S.

The two left the desk, bought a newspaper at the news stand and then went to their room, via the elevator. Joe Prendergast, the elevator boy and a rising young man, gave them a warm welcome. In the room Bob sat down in an easy chair, unfolded his paper, and began to read. Eddie's attention was attracted by a whistle of surprise.

"Listen to this, Eddie," and Bob began to read from his paper.

"Big Booze Ring Broken Up. Hippo Halsey and Lee Akers, kings of the underworld and political bosses, were found guilty this morning of violating the liquor law in Judge Branstetter's court. Convicted with the ring leaders were Leland Le Bell and Casimir Kosinski, who were agitating the workers at the Ford Plant at Hege-wisch. Joe Kmecca, superintendent of the plant, was one of the chief witnesses for the state. Julia Walker, state's attorney and noted suffragette leader, had great influence over the jury by her lengthy but eloquent closing argument. Hazel Vaughn, Mr. Kmecca's private secretary, aided the state by her investigations."

"Well, well, what do you know about that!" said Eddie.

"And look here on the society sheet," continued Bob.

"Mrs. Florence (Hess) Govert held a party in honor of Kathryn Vogel, who is to be married in the late fall to Dr. M. Dalton, a well known dentist. Bridge was played and Miss Lucille Shea received the prize."

"What will Maggie say?"

"But that's not all, Ed; listen to this:

"Reverend John Reed and his wife, who will be remembered as Miss Marjorie Downing, a street singer for the Salvation Army, have sailed for the wilds of Africa where they will attempt to convert the natives."

"Whew! That's too much. I need strength, let's go down to dinner, Bob."

So the two descended to the dining-room where their old friend, Harold Petrie, now head waiter, directed them to a table at which were seated Olivia Holmes and Doris Houser.

When greetings were exchanged, the conversation turned to the class of '23.

"You see these people over at the table near the door," began Doris; "do you recognize them? The slender, willowy lady is Helen Overman, who has established a training school for stout women; the person on the left is Viola Keigebeln, toe dancer; and on the right Beatrice Hobbs, singer in Paul Cook's Follies, now showing at the Calumet Theatre. That stout gentleman leaving the room is Mr. Joe Ruff, manager of Sears, Roebuck and Company. He married Helen Forstrum."

"By the way," commenced Olivia, "did you hear that Arthur Jens is a lighthouse keeper in Lake Michigan? He became disgusted with life after Anna Sifkovich refused him. He was crazy about her."

After dinner the two couples, having decided to take in a movie, saw the newest Paramount release, "Laugh and the World Laughs with You," starring Lois Bennett. The movie was a fine one and all agreed that Lois outshone Norma Talmadge when she was in her prime. The main attraction was followed by a rollicking comedy, "Two of a Kind," with Grayce Eldridge and Lorraine Ervin taking the leads. The animated cartoons by the nationally known cartoonist, Peter Bornejko, were especially clever; but the real surprise was the news notes. Carmen McWilliams was shown taking charge of her new position as Librarian of the Congressional Library at Washington, D. C. It was through the influence of Hope Moriarty, newly elected Senator, that Miss McWilliams received her position. Miss Moriarty was elected on the "wet" ticket.

A scene was shown of Foster Arnold working in his laboratory. This scientist is identified with his discovery of synthetic gold.

After the show the party returned to their hotel; and while in the lobby an announcement by the clerk informed them that a radio program from a Chautauqua Company in Honolulu would be given. They remained to take it in. The first selection was a reading by a skilled ventriloquist, Hazel Grant; then followed a beautiful quartette by the World's Wandering Warblers, Wanda Colgrove, Martha Donaldson, Elizabeth Forline and Maebelle Hoffman. The program was closed by a talk, advertising the attractions of the Hammond International Exposition, given by Walter Fabian, the United States Minister to Sweden.

After the program the party broke up and the members retired to their rooms for the night. In the wee small hours the door knob turned and the door opened and again closed. Crash—and then silence. Eddie half rose from his bed and strained his ears listening. Bob moaned in his sleep, rolled over, but slept on. Eddie could hear a shuffling, a groan, then mumbled words. In the dim light he saw a dark form rise from the floor and start towards him; with a yelp of terror he leaped from the bed and onto the figure. They clinched and slid to the floor, and a second dark figure joined in the fray. In a few minutes Eddie was pinned to the floor by one of them. The lights flashed on and a sight met Eddie's eyes. On his chest sat Walter Corner and near the light switch stood Clere Harder. Smiles broke out on their faces as they recognized one another and peace was restored.

"We got in the wrong room," the intruders explained. "You see, we just came from Cleveland to see the exposition after we shipped our wives to a summer camp for a week. Alice Tiedeman and Oletha Martin conduct a resort up in the mountains."

"Who mentioned wives?" sleepily yawned Bob, just coming out of his disturbed slumber.

"Well," announced Clere, "I captured Vera Prohl, and Wally married Mildred Soderberg. It was a double wedding affair."

"Mighty interesting, indeed; but say, I have an idea,—tomorrow is Sunday and things will be kinda dead. Let's go to church."

"Fine," said they in chorus.

Sunday was a beautiful day and at last the four had agreed on the church by entering the first they saw. They timidly seated themselves in the last seat, each one trying to act as if he were accustomed to be present. The room quietly filled and Orpha McCay, Caroline Riechers and Amanda Schultz were easily recognized as singers in the choir. The minister entered and slowly made his way to the front of the church where he turned to face his congregation. You could have knocked the four down with a feather as Reverend F. Lagree began his sermon.

After the sermon the Reverend Lagree announced that Gertrude Schaffer, as President of the Ladies' Aid Society, would hold a card party in the parish hall. The funds received at the party were to be sent to Ada Stack and Ruth Stevens, who were missionaries to the Eskimos. Church over, they went outside where they recognized a number of the parish. Leah Wecker, teacher at the Chicago University, informed them that Philip Schuringa was mayor of Lansing, now a thriving city, while Fred Vierk was the principal of the new Hammond Technical High School, the building for which had been donated by Ethel Trost, a wealthy widow.

"Let's skim out of this town before something happens,—we've seen enough," grinned Bob.

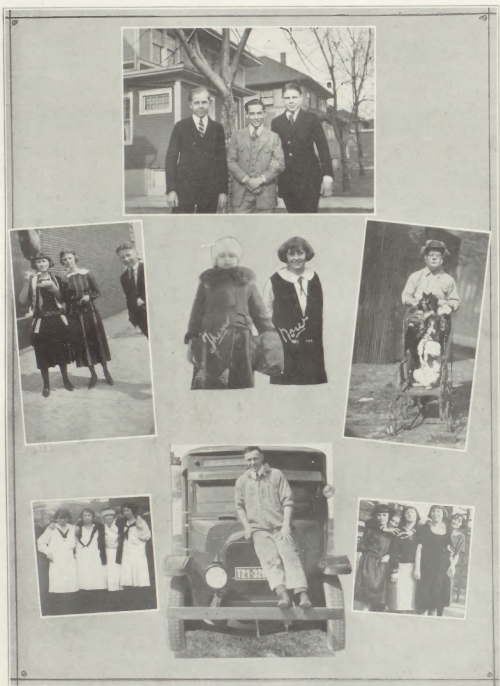

They checked out at the hotel and Bob and Ed jumped in a taxi and sped to the Michigan Central station. As the taxi driver was paid, he was recognized as Albert Smith.

They jumped on the train, and as they sat down in the Pullman, they recognized Jack and Bessie Thompson who explained they had combined forces and were on their honeymoon.

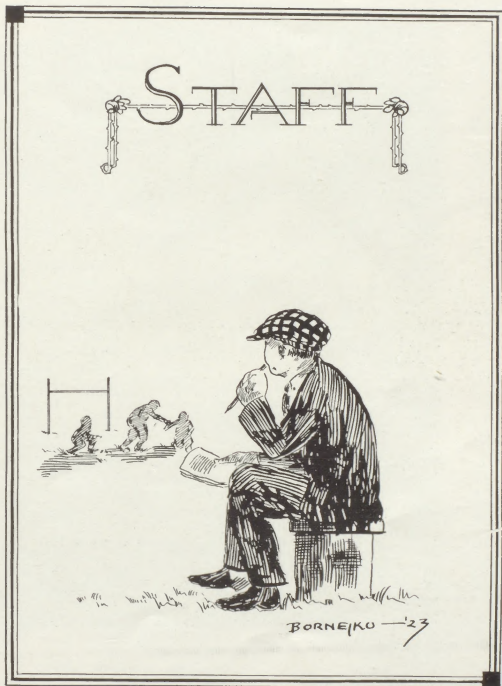

"Well, the class of '23 sure is taking part in things," mused Eddie.

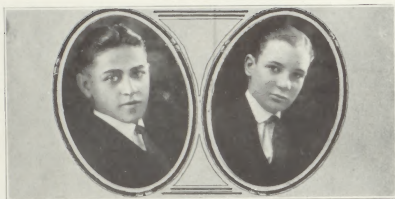

"I'll say," commented Bob.

And as both sat thinking thoughts of old times, the train sped on, leaving fond memories and Hammond High miles behind.

The Debating Team

THE Debating Team this year was not as successful as it was last year due to several inconveniences. Only one debate was held with East Chicago, the question for debate being: Resolved, that the principle of the closed shop should be adopted in American industry. Hammond upheld the affirmative side of the question. The members of the team were Julia Walker, Sam Nagdeman and Maurice Dalton. Miss Patterson and Mr. Wolfe coached. Although Hammond did not win the debate, a good showing was made.

The Student Council

OUR Student Council is the mainstay of the school. Its untiring efforts in behalf of the student body at large have been praiseworthy throughout the entire year inasmuch as they have been directed to an unselfish end.

Early in the year the student council organized with William Kleihege as president; Joe Ball, vice-president; Mary Christopher, treasurer and secretary; Mr. Long, faculty advisor, and Mr. Spohn, a member by virtue of his office. The Council itself is composed of nine members—three seniors, two juniors, one sophomore, one freshman, and two faculty members.

The work of the Council is most commendable. The greater part of their time has been directed toward the material improvement of the school, namely, the installation of the traffic regulations in the halls; the upkeep of the drinking fountains; and the supervision of the safety devices. In a social capacity they have established a code of social rules for school activities; and they have had the supervision of the circulation of booklets among the incoming freshmen, advising and directing them.

The Temulac

THE school found in Mr. Dale Kitzmiller an unusually capable sponsor for its paper. Although the staff worked under many disadvantages, the "Temulac" under his firm guidance surpassed all of its predecessors.

In January the much needed and desired class in Journalism was organized with Miss Baptist as instructor. The staff members were then able to get together for at least two hours each day. During this time the "Temulac" for each week was prepared and a course in Journalism was taught.

There are about thirty-two members on the '23 staff, each of whom is energetic in shouldering his specific responsibility.

The "H" Men's Club

THE "H" Men's Club is one of the oldest clubs in the High School. Its membership is open to any man who has made his letter in any form of interscholastic athletics.

It is a decidedly social organization. The meetings are devoted to a little business, followed by a pleasant hour for all.

Unlike all other clubs, this organization is granted permission to meet outside of the school building, at the home of the different members.

The Press Club

THE Press Club is a rather new High School organization, the purpose of which is to furnish an open forum for the students of printing. At the meetings current topics are discussed, and items of interest in journalism and commercial printing work are explained.

The Press Club is also an important social organization. It has sponsored an all-school party and a swimming meet; at the time of writing the members are also planning for the annual banquet to the basketball men, and for a track challenge.

The Press Club played an important part in the tournament, and we owe our thanks to them for the attractive programs.

The Canary Club

THE Canary Club is one of the most worthy and active clubs in the school. Its great aim and purpose is to promote a broader and more intelligent appreciation of music in regard to chorus work.

It originally was composed of seventy-five members, only alumni and upper classmen being eligible for membership. However, the Lake County Music Contest necessitated the better talent of the chorus, and consequently the membership in the club was reduced to thirty-six. Owing to the nature of the club, it was decided that it should meet every Tuesday evening between the hours of 7:00 and 8:15.

Early in the fall semester the club was organized with the following results:

NED COOK . . . . .	President
BEATRICE HOBBS . . . . .	Vice-President
LENORE ELLISON . . . . .	Secretary and Treasurer

The club is one of which every student should be proud. Much praise is due to Miss Miller's direction, and to the wonderful spirit of co-operation shown between the chorus and instructor.

Hi-Y Club

THE wave of the "Hi-Y" Clubs which have swept the High Schools of the country has not missed Hammond. This club was organized to promote high moral and physical standards among the boys of the schools.

Wilfred Weaver is president of the organization, James Halsey, vice-president, and Edward Henricks, secretary-treasurer.

THE FRIENDSHIP CLUB

The O. G.

THE O. G. Club is one of the most interesting clubs organized this year. O. G. stands for Our Gang, a "gang" composed of junior and senior girls. The aim of the club is to promote more pep and enthusiasm and school spirit at all the games.

Last fall, after the game with Michigan City, the club gave a banquet for the football boys. They served as ushers at the basketball tournament and saw to it that no one was without something to eat.

We hope that the O. G. Club will play just as important a part in school activities next year.

(Fourth row) Doris Florence, Lois Hartnutt, Nortune Griffith, Hazel Grant, Viola Willis, Ada Stock.

The Cafeteria

11:20—"How slow time goes!"

11:22—"Gracious goodness!"

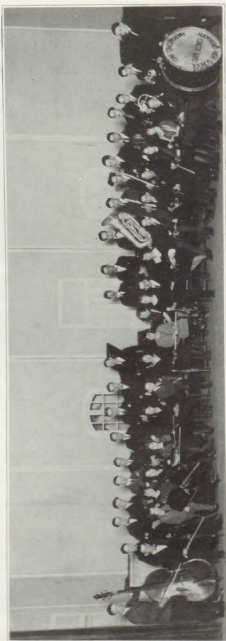

11:24—"Will it never be time?"

11:25—"Ah! There it is!"

What? Why, the lunch bell, of course. And the lunch bell is followed by a scramble; and the scramble ends in the long, long lines filing into the cafeteria. Here the two steam tables are an attractive sight with the white-capped girls behind them and the tempting eats, on top.

The management of the cafeteria is a large undertaking. Twenty-five girls and five women are regularly employed to prepare the food. The girls make, on an average, a hundred salads a day. Every day ten gallons of ice cream is sold, and since the Milk Campaign began, the sale of milk has increased  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent.

The successful management of the cafeteria is due to Miss Dahl's efficient supervision and the splendid co-operation of the cafeteria workers.

THE ORCHESTRA

The Orchestra

THE honor of being a member of our High School Orchestra belongs to fifty students.

Mr. DeSwarte is the capable leader of the organization and under his supervision it has indeed flourished. It has entertained at many school activities and also at various other affairs. At all times it has been highly complimented and greatly enjoyed.

The members, and the instrument played by each, follow:

HIGH SCHOOL BAND

The Band

THE most enthusiastic, the liveliest and the newest organization in our High School is our concert band. Its leader is a man for whom the school has long waited; a man with the real school spirit and the ability that is needed to lead such an organization to such a success. We are all proud of our band and especially of its director, Mr. Dale Kitzmiller.

The first public appearance of the concert band was made during the regular auditorium session on Monday, March 12, 1923. The first period is this organization's regular practice hour and at first only discords resulted from the brave attempts made to master the instruments; now, however, one enjoys listening to even the playing of the scales.

Everyone is looking forward with the expectations of developing one of the largest and finest concert bands in Indiana.

The members and instruments of the Hammond High School Band are as follows: Nine clarinets, played by Frank Orff, Frank Jackson, George Kuhn, Arthur Jens, Ralph Smith, Harriet Kaufman, John Shanklin, Marjorie Bebe, and Earl Monberg; twelve cornets, Robert Thorsen, Arthur James, John Roher, Truman Weimer, Joe Phares, James Sharp, Lloyd Ort, Lester Gullickson, Forest Granger, Peter Schoon, Vaughn Parry, and Clarence Waulkman; four saxophones, Charles Bomberger, Dorren Davidson, Carol Warner, and Francis Meyer; four trombones, Seymour Breakstone, Joe Tinkham, John Wilhelm, and John Toren; three baritones, Oliver Nichols, Chelsea Oranger, Kenneth Beilby; six drums, Tremont Ruff, Raymond Young, Vern Gordon, Gordon Norton, Orville Howell, and Victor Nichols; five tubas, Joe Ball, Franklyn Parker, Chester Harrison, Myron Cox and Charles Howard; three horns, Dorothy Strong, Jane Wilson, and Paul Berry.

The Science Club '23

THE Science Club was organized a few years ago to promote interest among the high school students along scientific subjects. The membership is limited to thirty. Students who take or have taken Chemistry, Physics, or Biology are accepted. Fifteen students are allowed to enter under Chemistry, ten under Physics, and five under Biology. Mr. Rupp, as faculty advisor, adds considerable spirit and enthusiasm to the scientific topics discussed at the meetings. The club shines brightest of all the year 'round when they give their "Science Stunts" at the Fair.

Football Review

RENSSELAER AT HAMMOND

Rensselaer, 0                      Hammond, 6

September 30

Our first game was played at home. The boys were in good condition, but were a bit nervous. Johnny made the only touchdown in the game. "Flash" and "Vic" were our best bets.

MISHAWAKA AT MISHAWAKA

Mishawaka, 7                      Hammond, 6

October 7

On October 7th at Mishawaka the boys suffered their first defeat. As the game was played on a very rough, wet field, they were at the disadvantage of handling a wet ball for the first time. In the first half "Windy" and "Daddy" plowed through and entered for a touchdown. The kick failed. In the second half the Mishawaka boys made a touchdown and made goal.

EMERSON AT EMERSON

Emerson, 51                      Hammond, 0

October 14

The team suffered a terrible defeat at the hands of Emerson on October 14th. The defeat can be attributed almost entirely to the loss of "Buck" Weaver, fullback, who broke his arm in the first quarter. This put "Buck" out for the remainder of the year and the team missed his clear football knowledge.

FOOTBALL TEAM

LEFT TO RIGHT: Top Row—Kmeza, Black, Klehege, J. Ball, C. Ball, Meyers, Reed, Petrie
 Middle Row—Coach Wilson, Fabian, V. Nichols, Weaver, O. Nichols, Meyers, Halscy
 Bottom Row—Chevigny, Friedman, Mann, Henricks, Howat

EAST CHICAGO AT EAST CHICAGO
East Chicago, 6                      Hammond, 13

October 21

With Weaver and Ball out, the team traveled to the neighboring city and returned with the bacon. This game was one of the hardest contended fights of the season. Max Friedman played a stellar role.

FROEBEL AT HAMMOND
Froebel, 0                      Hammond, 0

October 28

When Froebel came to Hammond, the defeat at Emerson still rankled in the ivory craniums of some of our fellows. They were determined that Froebel should not win. Froebel was also determined that Hammond should not win. So they compromised and played a tie game. It was absolutely the hardest fought contest of the year.

"Vic" and Johnny played their usual game, but a little better. Thanks to the G. A. C. for the eats.

MICHIGAN CITY AT HAMMOND
Michigan City, 13                      Hammond, 13

November 4

The Prison City boys invaded our territory with the strong conviction that they should win by a score of 65-0 or better. When they left, they were convinced that Hammond has a team. "Windy" Meyer, our unique quarter-back, showed his thinking ability all the way through.

LOCKPORT AT HAMMOND
Lockport, 0                      Hammond, 52

November 11

Our last game was a decisive victory. The boys showed their superior ability against players their own weight. Not once was our team in dangerous territory. The Lockport boys were genuine sports and played good football, but were unable to stand the smashing bucks that Coach Wilson's wards had developed by playing against heavier teams.

This ended our football season. Successful or not, we leave you to judge.

Football Personnel

OLIVER "Ol" NICHOLS (Capt.), end

"Ol" is the only man on the team who played every minute of the season. "Ol" plays a hard game and no one goes around his end. His knack of holding the fellows together accounts for the good feeling among the players. He will be with the team next year. Good luck, "Ol."

CLARENCE "Daddy" BALL, center

"Daddy" was a veteran from last year and used his acquired knowledge to advantage. His punting ability was a surprise to those interested. He will probably play next year.

JOSEPH "Joe" BALL, guard

"Joe" used his size to good advantage on the gridiron. No matter who he was up against, he opened holes on offense and smashed them on defense. "Joe" is a senior and has donned his moleskin for the last time.

ROBERT "Bob" BLACK, guard

"Bob" was about the fifth candidate for guard, and with such competition, he had to work hard to get anywhere. Bob is a sure guard for next year's team, and we will need him. He is a freshman.

JOHN "Flash" CHEVIGNY, half

Johnnie was our "Old Reliable" when we wanted a wide end run. It was "Adios" if "Flash" got beyond the opposing team's line of scrimmage (which he usually did). "Flash" is a junior and great things are expected of him next year.

WILFRED "WIFF" HAMACHER, tackle

"Wiff" had the distinction of being the hardest bitter tackler on the team. Owing to an injury to his nose, "Wiff" did not get to show his full ability. He will not play with the team next year as he is graduating.

JAMES "HIPPO" HALSEY, half

"Hippo" was a "heavy half," and when he went through, it looked like a steam roller bowling over the offenders. He showed his gray matter in the Lockport game. "Hippo" will no longer decorate our illustrious field.

HAROLD "HAPPY" HOFFMAN, half

"The Heavy Trio" consisted of "Hippo," "Heavy," and "Happy." This crew was good for a gain against the heaviest line. "Happy's" greatest asset is his ability to hold the pigskin. No matter how many obstacles are presented, "Happy" still retains the ball. "Happy" has played his last game with H. H. S.

WILLIAM "BILL" MEYERS, guard and tackle

"Bill" had an uncanny ability to be at the knees of the fellow receiving the ball almost before he had received it. His tackling was hard and merciless. The team is losing a good player through graduation in the person of "Bill."

HAROLD "RED" PETRIE, guard and tackle

"Red" is an odd player. When the play starts, he is the last one on the way; but when it ends, "Red" is usually in the heat of the argument. "Red" leaves school next year.

WALTER "WALDECK" FABIAN, end and half

"Waldeck" took care of the right end as well as "Oli" did on the left. He is a "plowing fool" at half, and was good for five yards or more off tackle at any time. "Waldeck" is graduating; and if he does business as he plays football, he will be a "howling success."

EDWARD "EDDIE" HENRICKS, center

Eddie has tried for two years to make the team. His lack of weight has no doubt caused his earlier failure to do so, since there is so much pep, ferocity and push in his make-up. Eddie is a senior and leaves in June.

CARL KLEIHEGE, guard

Carl comes from a family of football players and possibly this accounts for his success his first year. Carl plays a hard game; as he is so tough himself, he treats all opponents as if they were stone. He is a sophomore, and has a wonderful future on the grid.

JOE "MEXICAN" KMECZA, full back

"The Mexican's" educated toe has added many points to the H. H. S. score. "Mex" was the official drop kicker for Coach Wilson's protégés. He is graduating.

VICTOR "Vic" NICHOLS, half, full, quarter

"Vic" was our all around back field man. At full, he hit the line like a ton of bricks; at half, he ran around end like Achilles; at quarter, he called signals fast, sharp, and sensibly. Altogether "Vic" plays as hard a game as can be found on a prep grid. He will be with us for two more years.

ERWIN "WINDY" MEYER, quarter

"Windy," as his name signifies, never had to stop "to take air" between signals. His "clear manly voice" ringing out over the gridiron was audible in every corner. "Windy's" head work saved the day in the Michigan City game. "Windy" will not be hack next year.

MAX "HEAVY" FRIEDMAN, guard

Although this was Max's first year at the game he showed up very well. Max is a hard worker and cannot be diverted from his object. He scooped up the old pig-skin and no doubt saved the day at East Chicago. Nine rabs for Max! He is graduating in June.

KENNETH "KENNY" MANN, guard

"Kenny" should also be included in the "steam roller" gang. His weight was a large factor in stopping many a slaughtering charge. "Kenny" is a junior, and will help make Hammond a championship team next year.

WILFRED "BUCK" WEAVER, full and tackle

It was tough luck that put "Buck" out of the race early in the season. He received a fractured arm in the Emerson game. "Buck" was the shining star at Mishawaka. He may be back next semester.

COACH WILSON

Coach Wilson learned football under the greatest of teachers—Experience. With this experience, he came to our city to pass on his knowledge to more youthful aspirants. This year he turned out a good team; next year he will turn out a championship team.

Basketball Review

December 1

EAST CHICAGO AT HAMMOND

On December 1 the Twin City boys visited our fair institute, and were relieved of a "yea" in the sectional championship by a score of 7-8.

December 8

FROEBEL AT FROEBEL

The Froebel quintette had the advantage over our boys of more practice, but it was, nevertheless, a hard fought game, which ended 12-9 with Froebel pulling.

December 15

LAPORTE AT HAMMOND

"Wilson's Wonders" chalked up another victory, this one against the Laporte aggregation. It was anybody's game until the last few minutes. Final score, 18-15.

January 10

CROWN POINT AT HAMMOND

January 10 marked the day of another defeat for Hammond. The "Ringer Special" refused to function for some reason. (Ask Windy.) Score, 20-17, Hammond playing cart.

January 12

EMERSON AT EMERSON

The Purple and White Warriors went to Emerson January 12. The odds were against us, the game ending with the Emerson gang collecting bets. (P. S. Ol Nichols played "Horsie" with Dick Sturtrige.)

January 19

ALUMNI AT HAMMOND

The old proverb, "A man can never whip his father," was badly broken and bent when the Regulars met the Veterans of former wars. The Alumni was swamped, 35-23.

BASKETBALL TEAM

January 20

LOWELL AT LOWELL

On January 20 Lowell spread the gloom to the tune of 21-10. It was a well contended game, and both teams deserve credit for the good sportsmanship shown.

January 27

EMERSON AT HAMMOND

The following Saturday the Emerson hopefuls turned gloom to gloomier. The Emerson boys came here to set the dope bucket up again, and succeeded in doing so. The whistle blew when 42 points had been chalked up for Emerson and 17 for Hammond.

February 2

HOBART AT HOBART

Mentor Wilson took his crowd to Hobart to start them on a point getting enterprise. In this game and during the remainder of the season, Ball easily showed his supreme ability as "short shot" man. Laurels went to Hammond with a score of 24-13.

February 3

RENSSELAER AT RENSSELAER

The day after the Hobart game, the boys traveled to Rensselaer and were nosed out by a 7-point lead. The game ended 18-11 in favor of Rensselaer.

February 10

FROEBEL AT HAMMOND

The Steel City boys came to Hammond convinced that they would repeat their former victory, but by a curious twist of fate—or luck, the Purple and White boys won over them by a score of 21-9.

February 16

EAST CHICAGO AT EAST CHICAGO

Our second game with the Twin City boys was a repetition of the first. East Chicago showed the better team work, but was unable to cope with the long shot ability of "Dizzy" Meyers. The score stood 24-13, Hammond at the tape.

February 23

CROWN POINT AT CROWN POINT

This was absolutely the best game and the most hotly contested of our whole season. It was neck and neck all the way through the game. With about one minute to play, the score 19-19, some lucky dub on the Crown Point aggregation makes a basket. All that's left to tell about—21-19. Lost!

The Tournament

The basketball season closed with the sectional tournament held March 2-3 in the Masonic Temple. Although we did not win the championship, we gave the winner the best battle. Emerson, our old rival, won over Whiting in the final game.

Some may say that our basketball season was not a success; however, it was not a failure. Coach Wilson had to develop practically an entire team. Next year he will have a scrappy bunch to pick from, and we expect to be successful in winning the sectional championship.

Basketball Personnel

CAPTAIN "Vic" NICHOLS, guard

"Vic" has captained the team through a successful season in the eyes of the school critics. Considering the obstacles that had to be met and the way they were met, "Vic" has shown wonderful ability. His work at stationary guard is worthy of favorable comment. "Vic" is a sophomore and will play two more years.

CLARENCE "LANKY" BALL, center

The first three men are the nucleus of this year's team. Ball is a veteran from last year. His great ability was in making short, under-the-basket shots, very few of which he missed; this, combined with his clear thinking ability, made up for his lack of aggressiveness. He is a junior and will pass the pill next year.

GERVASE "JERRY" CURTNER, forward

Whenever it was necessary for a quick and reliable substitute to be made, "Jerry" could be banked on to take the position. "Jerry" shows good head work and an excellent knowledge of the technique of the game. Jerry is also a senior.

JAMES "HIPPO" HALSEY, forward

"Hippo's" greatest accomplishment is taking the ball away from his opponent. He also has a keen eye for short shots. Jim plays a hard and consistent game and his ability more than makes up for his diminutive stature. Jim is a senior.

WM. "BILL" KLEIHEGE, guard

Bill is a veteran of three years' experience. In three years "Bill" has learned the finest points of the game, and with his aggressive nature (on a B. B. floor) has made himself the "sun spot" of our own little solar system. Bill has served his time and leaves us in June.

JOE "MEXICAN" KMECZA, forward

Joe is a player of no mean ability. He stars in speeding up the game. His dribbling is unequalled. Joe is a senior and plays no more for the purple and white.

ERWIN "WINDY" MEYER, forward

"Windy" has a knack of slopping in fouls, an accomplishment which has gained him a place in the hearts of all the fans. "Windy" is a hard and cheerful fighter who can't be made to quit. He goes till the last puff of the whistle. He is a senior and plays no more for Hammond High School.

OLIVER "Ol" NICHOLS, guard

Whenever a few points were wanted immediately, "Ol" was the one called "on duty." His playing was always a satisfaction to the fans. He will play with us next year.

EDWARD "EDDIE" HENRICKS

Eddie was chosen to manage our team for the year, and filled his position well. He was always willing to help, and through his efforts the team was kept in good condition. Eddie is a senior, and a new manager must be found for next year.

COACH WILSON

Coach Wilson came to us from Illinois, and he surely knows his game. As a football coach he stands supreme, as a basketball coach he has few equals, and his knowledge of track, baseball and swimming has not been slighted. We are all glad that he is to be with us next year.

TRACK

Lake County Meet, 1922

THE twenty-second annual Lake County Track and Field Meet was held Saturday, May 6, at Gleason Park, Gary. Hammond placed second, the meet being won by Emerson with 44½ points. The purple and white scored 24. Lowell was third with 14½ points and East Chicago fourth with 5 points.

Sturridge won individual honors, capturing firsts in the high jump, broad jump, and second in the high and low hurdles and the pole vault. O. Nichols was second for the honor with firsts in the high and low hurdles.

Other Hammond men to place were, Cunningham, second in the 100-yard dash and third in the 220-yard dash; Cedergreen, first in the pole vault; Bieker, second in the 440-yard dash; V. Nichols, third in the high hurdles, and Powley, third in the broad jump.

The Hammond team made a splendid showing, satisfying even the most pessimistic.

Northern Indiana Meet, 1922

HAMMOND was represented by four men, Cunningham, Cedergreen, O. Nichols and Bieker, at the Northern Indiana Meet, held at Plymouth. The purple and white squad finished second, Emerson again winning the contest.

The Hammond men to place were: O. Nichols, first in the low hurdles, second in the high hurdles; H. Bieker, first in the 220-yard dash and second in the 100-yard dash; Cedergreen, second in the pole vault.

This showing placed Hammond among the first ten track teams of the state.

Track, 1923

WITH but a few of last year's men left, Coach Wilson has a man-size job ahead of him in turning out a championship team. Oliver and Victor Nichols are the veterans. "Ol" is our chief point-getter, running both the high and the low hurdles. "Vic" gives him plenty of competition in these events, and the brothers generally finish, first and second.

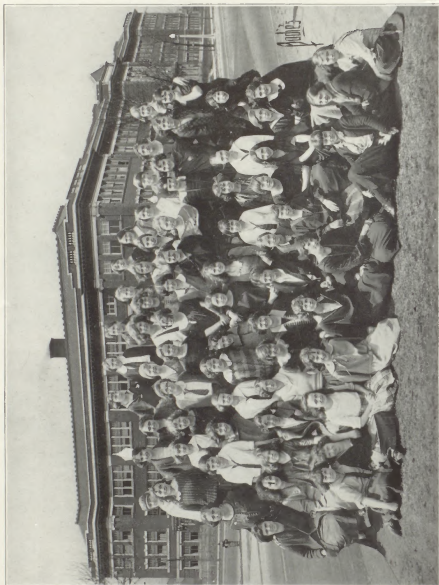

Other likely candidates are G. Norton, A. Wingard, F. Lagree, W. Kleihege, W. Myers, and those who make a favorable showing in the inter-class meet. Dual meets are being scheduled with Lake County cities and the "thin clads" being trained for the county meet.

A very favorable showing can be expected of this year's squad, which compares equally well with teams of other years.

Bob Wilson: "Say, did you know that there was nearly a death in the Ball family when Clarence was born?"

Jack Henriks: "No, was there?"

Bob Wilson: "Yes, when Clarence found out that Joe was his brother, he nearly laughed himself to death."

"Name the seasons."

"Pepper, salt, vinegar, and mustard."

BRIGHT SAYINGS OF THE CHILDREN

Joe Kmecca: "Lincoln won by 180 electrical votes."

Russell Wolf: "General VanRensselaer went up Niagara Falls." (river)

Eddie Henriks: "There was a sea battle on Lake Champlain."

Hippo Halsey: "The refrigerator cars returned carrying apples, potatoes, cheeses, and other vegetables."

Mildred Anderson: "Bill isn't the same to me any more."

Marg Downing: "Did you see him with another?"

Mildred Anderson: "No, he saw me with another."

"I don't dance very well do I?"

"Oh, you'd do well enough if you'd only learn to stand on your own feet."

"Well, young man, what do you want?"

"We're going to run a railroad through here."

"Goin' to run it through my barn?"

"Yep."

"Well, you can't run it through today, I've got a hen sitting."

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire turned to go.

"I came down here to find out the cause of this fire and I have done so," he remarked.

"That's what I want to know, what caused it?" demanded the house owner.

"It's a plain case of friction."

"Friction? Between what?"

"Friction between a three thousand dollar insurance policy and a two thousand dollar house."

Parent: "Lenore, do you ever stop to reflect?"

Lenore Ellison: "Every time there is a mirror to reflect in, Mater."

Mr. Tew, (after long discussion): "And now, gentlemen, we get  $X = O$ ."

Dick Akers: "Gee, all that work for nothing!"

Art Fromm: "Impossible, is he?"

Bob Scherer: "He's so dumb he thinks Walter Camp is where the football players train."

Alph C.: "Shall we take a taxi?"

Evaughn: "No, thanks, I never look well in bright colors."

Stern Father: "I've never seen a report card like this before. Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

Backward Son: "Frankly, Dad, I'm not. You promised me ten dollars if I'd bring home a good report card, and I thought you'd better economize."

Eulah: "Horrors! I forgot to turn off the electric iron."

Evaughn: "It's all right. Nothing will burn long. I forgot to turn off the water."

Pewee Gordon: "Pa, what's the difference between assurance and insurance?"

"Well, my son, the former is what the agent has and the latter is what he tries to sell you."

Mr. Spohn: "So you confess that this unfortunate young man was carried to the pond and drenched? Now, what part did you have in this disgraceful affair?"

Art Fromm: "The right leg, sir."

Orchestra Drummer: "I'm the fastest man in the world."

Violinist: "How so?"

Orchestra Drummer: "Time flies, doesn't it?"

Violinist: "So they say."

Orchestra Drummer: "Well, I beat time."

Interviewer: "And what made you take up weight lifting as a profession?"

Professor: "Well, I've always had a weakness for that sort of thing."

"I want some collars for my husband, but I'm afraid I have forgotten the size."

"Thirteen and a half, ma'am."

"That's it. How on earth did you know?"

"Men who let their wives buy their collars for them are almost always that size, ma'am."

"Did you ever see anybody so dreadfully slow as Charles?"

"Oh, I don't know. They say he plays a pretty fast game of chess."

Hospital Attendant: "No, you can't see Johnny Dyer. He is going to be operated on today."

Louie Hannaur: "But I've got to see him. He owes me two bits."

Miss Burhans: "How far have you studied, Joe?"

Joe Prendergast: "Just as far as the book is dirty, ma'am."

Street Car Conductor: "How old are you, my little girl?"

Hazel Grant: "If the corporation doesn't object, I'd prefer to pay the full fare and say nothing."

"What age would you say I was, young sir?"

"Half of what you really are, dear lady."

Helen Wise: "Have I changed much, Uncle?"

"Not as much as I thought you would, I expected to see you in long dresses."

Father: "You only come to see me when you want money."

Louis Marko: "Shall I come oftener?"

Ned Cook: "Why, man, you have no sense of humor. When I first heard that joke, I laughed until my sides ached."

Frank Douglas: "So did I."

Tom Levine: "Waldo Bail says his heart is lacerated."

Vie Nichols: "No! Who's the lass?"

Joe Ball: "I want a dog collar, please."

Clerk: "Yes, sir, what size shirt does he wear?"

The Girl: "I'm shocked at the way father treated you. I've almost worshipped Papa, but it seems my idol has feet of clay."

The Suitor: "Clay? Concrete more likely!"

The Passerby: "You took a great risk in rescuing that boy; you deserve a Carnegie medal. What prompted you to do it?"

Neal Dufrane: "He had my skates on."

Co-ed: "Why didn't you find out who he was when the professor called the roll?"

Another Co-ed: "I did try to, but he answered for four different names."

Kind Friend: "I did what I could, Toney; I told her that you had more money than sense."

Victim: "And what did she say?"

Kind Friend: "She asked me if you had any money."

Mrs. Rupp: "What do we mean when we say that the whole is greater than any of its parts?"

Lee Akers: "A restaurant doughnut."

Max Friedman: "Do you think that old razor will do it?"

Barber: "It will, sir, if the handle don't break."

"How is your new hired man?"

"Well," replied Farmer Jones, "he broke two hoe handles yesterday."

"Working so hard?"

"No, leaning on them."

Kennel Man: "I can assure you, Madam, he's a one man dog."

She: "A one man dog! Oh, then he'd never do for me."

Biggs: "Her teeth are like stars."

Joggs: "Why?"

Biggs: "They come out every night."

"How did you hurt your hand? Been fighting?"

Bobbie: "Yep. Those were awful sharp teeth Sammy Jones used to have."

Miss Dille: "Why do people say 'Dame Gossip'?"

McLaggin: "Because they are probably too polite to leave off the 'e'."

Marjorie Downing: "I thought you could keep a secret."

Mildred Anderson: "Well, I kept it for a week. Do you think I am a cold-storage warehouse?"

It was midnight. "Wow-wow-wow-wow!" wailed the baby.

"Four bawls and a walk," responded the ball player daddy.

Peter Howat, translating: "Haec in Gallia est importantus," made it "Hike into Gaul; it's important."

Teacher: "What is the difference between, 'I will hire a taxi' and 'I have hired a taxi'?"

Kid: "About six dollars and a half."

KLEIHEGE AGAIN SET FREE

Mildred "Venus" Anderson, famous bathing beauty, was granted a divorce from William "Cicero" Kleihege, cabaret idol, this morning in Judge Dyer's court. Her striking beauty and a newspaper clipping of last year's bathing parade in which she took part, contributed greatly in her favor.

Kleihege was present with Sarah Meyer and Evaughn Miliken, musical comedy stars, on either arm. He was charged with assault and battery, grave cruelty, woman'slaughter, felonious assault, etc. All this was caused by a rolling pin which was propelled at him by Venus and which, bouncing from his India rubber head, whizzed past his wife's ears with such force as to give her pneumonia. The court thought the above enough to grant her the divorce.

Upon interview, Kleihege heroically said to the reporter, "Suckitwash!" which, translated, means, "I have nothing to say!"

Wedding Bells

Harold Wagner amid showers of rice and Irish confetti was married to Miss Margaret Howe, grand opera star. This ends his bumbling career during which he covered the far away lands of Hessville and Gary. It was his ambition to see East Hammond and establish a new record, but his wish was never fulfilled.

Halsey in Jail—At Last

Sheik Halsey was arrested by Copper Friedman Thursday night, on complaint of Miss Julia Walker. She claims he broke her heart and demands either his love, or its equivalent in cash, fifty cents. Halsey was besieged by Cleveigny and Howat, last night, who wanted to know his heart-breaking formula.

Human Fly Achieves New Laurels

Ned Cook, ambitious human fly, succeeded (after two unsuccessful attempts), in climbing up the smooth walls of his garbage can, last night. The astonishing feat was witnessed by three hot dogs and eleven roaches. When reaching the top, Cook struck his big toe in an egg shell and did a marvelous toe dance.

At present he is resting at Logansport. Officials say he will recover.

LOUIS MARKO GOES INSANE

Louis Marko, well known Shakespearean player, went violently insane late last night. He kept crying "to be or not to be" for hours. Then he changed to the word "Dunes," screaming like a child. "Give me my Dunes! Where is my Dunes? Oh, my Dunes!" It is believed that this outbreak was due to hard work on the annual in his early years at the Hammond High School. Miss Patterson, who had coached him to all his success, was summoned. After hours of patient work, Miss Patterson brought him under control, and the keepers of the Hessville asylum were summoned to take him home.

Spider Leg Reed Annihilates Price

Spider Leg Reed knocked out Tonsilitis Price in their seventh meeting, at Summer's Drug Store. The first six meetings have been even, as each kissed the sawdust three times. This meeting decided the championship of Burnham; and to the winner went a skunk fur shoe lace.

Tonsilitis led by a wide margin and pumelled Reed all around the soda fountain, until the ninety-sixth round, when Spider landed a blow on Price's chest. This humiliated Price, who had never been hit before, so he lay down and died.

Coroner Walker completely exonerated Reed.

Dalton Rescues 2 Tea Hounds

Harold Wagner Gets His Ninth Promotion in Six Years

Harold Wagner, one of the I. H. B.'s most successful men, got another promotion. Up until yesterday, he was general superintendent, but word was received that he will be General Manager at the first of the month. His promotion is a matter of congratulation, and all his former schoolmates are highly pleased at his advancement.

Meyer-Curtner Wedding Bells

Miss Sarah Meyer and Mr. Gervase (Jerry) Curtner were married at the bride's home, at high noon last Wednesday. The Rev. Chester Harrison performed the ceremony. Morris Dalton was best man, and Margaret Klein was bridesmaid. These two have planned their wedding for the near future.

Jokes

"What are you doin', James?"
 "Sharpening a bit of pencil."
 "You'll have the union after ye, me lad. That's a carpenter's job."

Judge: "This man says that you deliberately ran over him."

Giles W.: "That's nonsense. I leave it to you, your honor, how can a man deliberate when he is going fifty-five miles an hour?"

James Halsey: "Will you give me something for my head?"

Druggist: "I wouldn't take it as a gift, dummy."

Miss Ibach: "Frank, didn't you hear what I said?"

Frank Lagree: "No."

Miss Ibach: "I said you were not to talk without permission."

Frank: "Please, may I talk to this guy?"

Harold Wagner: "What were you doing this summer?"

John Dyer: "I had a position in my father's office. And you?"

Harold Wagner: "I wasn't working either."

Captain: "Ahoy, there, let go the anchor."

Sailor: "I ain't touched it yet."

Mr. Tew (as John Henricks lights a match during his lecture): "Are you trying to throw some light on the subject, Henricks?"

(At the Art Institute) "So that's the famous Apollo Belvidere? The model would have made a good football player."

"Yes, but he wouldn't have been so handsome after a game or two."

John Reed: "Won't you take a ride with me?"

Julia: "It's too cold."

John Reed: "I have a stove in the bottom of my car."

Julia: "All right, then, I like a little oven."

"Do you know, Marguerite, that before he goes under, a drowning man thinks of all the things he has done that he shouldn't have done?"

"You needn't worry, Johnny, they'd have plenty of time to rescue you."

And Ruskin Was So Clever

When asked to express his opinion of the bicycle, John Ruskin replied, "You can't improve on God's appointed way of walking by substituting an improved cart wheel." But bicycles came into world-wide use all the same.

The manufactured gas industry was born amidst similar superstitions. Napoleon said gas lighting was "a great folly." Sir Walter Scott, the great Scotch novelist, said "There is a madman trying to light London with smoke." And even later, people thought that gas pipes were filled with fire and refused to touch them with ungloved hands, one fearful soul exclaiming that gas would set the Thames on fire and "burn all the pretty little fishes to cinders."

But the gas industry progressed just the same. Today in America it is making the greatest strides in its history—placing on tap for more than half the population of the country the cleanest and most efficient fuel on earth, backed up by a service rendered 365¼ days of the year.

WHAT ARE YOU LOOKING FOR FROM A PRINTER
AND ~?
BINDER?

Equipment The necessary modern efficient machinery and buildings to economically and speedily produce the printing and binding required.

Personnel An organization of thoroughly trained men and women to operate the plant and deliver according to agreement, both as to time and quality.

Experience Forty-six years of active continuous operation under the same name and management.

Our advice is to place your printing and binding with a firm that you know has these qualifications.

Your inquiries will be given our utmost care and attention.
